SPORT NOTES

Champion trotter given away, says dispatch. Lot of these horsemen would be better off if they would give their trotters away.

Boxer is the name of a Reserve football player. Wonder if he does.

Al McCoy wants to fight Les Darcy. Talk's pretty cheap over a distance of 12,000 miles.

A New York woman has opened an employment bureau for convicts. Wonder if there is any places open for lightweight prizefighters.

Fable—Connie Mack got three hat boys, a couple of high school wonders, and some more from the sand lots and won the pennant.

Ping Bodie won't play with the Athletics. Hurrah for Ping.

Hurry-up Yost addressed a dry meeting the other night. Sort of a foul tackle on Demon Rum, as it were.

What has become of the old-fashioned football coach who used to stand on the sidelines and shout "Give 'em the elbow."

HEAR RIVER COMPLAINTS.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 26.—Hearings on complaints of shippers by packet steamer in the Kanawha river has been set for the November session of the Public Service Commission. Answers to these complaints were filed with the commission by packet owners.

MINERAL REJECTS BIDS.

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 26.—The county court of Mineral has rejected all the bids submitted for the construction of permanent roads in New Creek district, this county, because they were so high. It is probable that no further attempt will be made to get lower bids, as contractors are bidding up because of the uncertainties of prices for materials and for labor, in addition to the changes of weather.

HEALTH HINTS

More people die from tuberculosis than from any other disease of this age.

It usually attacks a person's lungs and then it is known as consumption. It frequently attacks the bones, however, especially of little children and it makes many cripples or hunchbacks of those whom it doesn't succeed in killing.

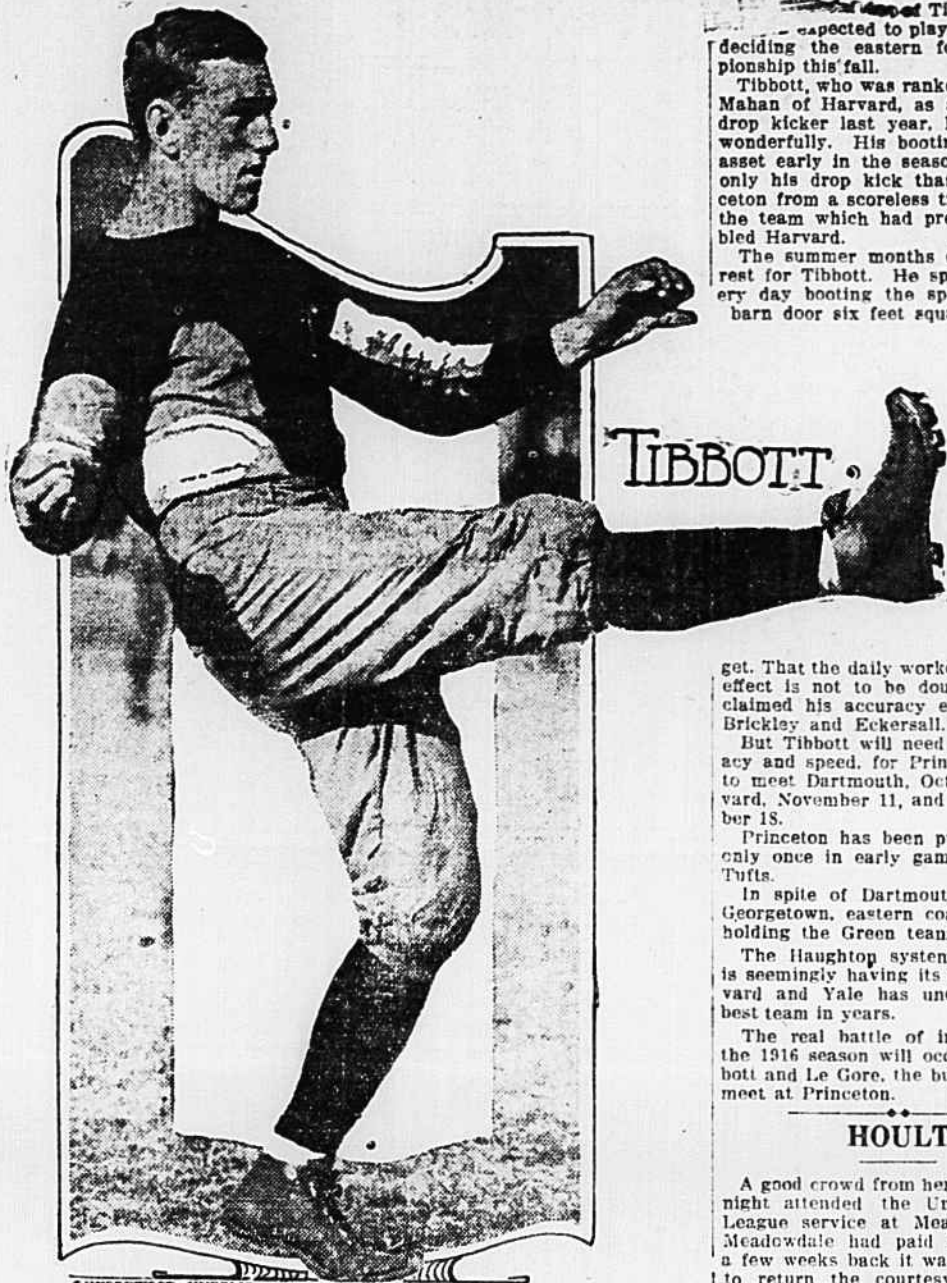

It is well to teach children early that well people get the germs of tuberculosis in their lungs from the sick. Explain that often a person sick with tuberculosis does not cover his mouth with a handkerchief when coughing or sneezing and then someone near him breathes in the germs with the little drops of moisture in the air or carries them on his hand to his mouth. Often the consumptive spits on the floor or sidewalks and then the germs are carried in the dust or fly insects to other ways to people.

A speck of dust may contain a thousands of these germs. Frequently children get the germs by putting to their mouths cups or other articles that have been used by a consumptive.

These germs grow best in dark, close and dirty places. Bright sunlight easily kills them. Tuberculosis, in other words, is afraid of the open air. It loves dark, dampness and dirt. No medicine will cure tuberculosis, but people can keep from catching it, and those who have it may be cured if they will live healthful lives and give fresh air, good food and pure water a fair chance to strengthen them.

The little germ that causes tuberculosis is so small that it has to be magnified several hundred times before one can see it. Yet it has been called the "most powerful bug in the world."

TIBBOTT'S EDUCATED TOE MAY GUIDE PRINCETON TO EASTERN TITIE

BY PAUL PURMAN

Tibbott, who was ranked with Eddie Mahan of Harvard, as a punter and drop kicker last year, has improved wonderfully. His booting was a big asset early in the season, for it was only his drop kick that saved Princeton from a scoreless tie with Tufts, the team which had previously humbled Harvard.

The summer months did not mean rest for Tibbott. He spent hours every day booting the spheroid, using barn door six feet square for a target. That the daily workouts had their effect is not to be doubted as it is claimed his accuracy equals that of Brickley and Eckersall.

But Tibbott will need all his accuracy and speed, for Princeton has yet to meet Dartmouth, October 28, Harvard, November 11, and Yale, November 15.

Princeton has been put to the test only once in early games, that with Tufts.

In spite of Dartmouth's defeat by Georgetown, eastern coaches are not holding the Green team lightly.

The Houghton system of coaching is seemingly having its effect at Harvard and Yale has undoubtedly the best team in years.

The real battle of individuals for the 1916 season will occur when Tibbott and Le Gore, the bulldog wonder, meet at Princeton.

HOULT

A good crowd from here last Sunday night attended the Union Epworth League service at Meadowdale. As Meadowdale had paid Hault a visit a few weeks back it was up to Hault to return the courtesy, which was gladly done. A good program was rendered, composed of speaking on topic "Second Mile Religion," by Rev. D. H. Perkins, Rev. F. E. Wiles, Samuel Harris, James D. Bowman and Russell Squires, also recitations, duets and good singing by the choir and congregation. These meetings are helping to cement the friendship of the neighborhoods.
